99¢ Special

The heart wants what the heart wants—it doesn't care about family tradition, or what a person's beliefs are. But Catherine Wall made her father a promise when she was young, and she can't go against his dying wishes.

Jaidon has faced obstacles before, and he's always overcome them. Catherine seems to be a dream come true. She doesn't mind working with inner city youth and they're both Christians. Yet, to her, dating him would be the equivalent of being unequally yoked.

No matter what Catherine says, she can't convince Jaidon that their love is not meant to be. . . They are just too different.

Can Jaidon leave his church and become a Quaker? Or are their hopes of a 'happily ever after' doomed because of a promise a little girl made so very long ago?
