Buddy the Magic Puppy: How I got back home after I was dognapped Richard Blumberg-Ackermann

This is a book to teach children the power of love and caring. And believing that you can make miracles. Buddy Ackerman was dognapped at 7:00am as he was walking near his home... He was later dropped at the local High School and a day later after a windy and cold night outside, the doggie went to the Village Green Park in the Old Village of Great Neck, where he was promptly stolen by a woman who took him a couple of towns away to Port Washington. After two weeks and a day he was reunited with his daddy. Buddy tells his story to anyone who wants to know how he got back from over ten miles away to his home and family. Even the Nassau County police were involved, this story is based on true events. Just about every cop in Great Neck was aware that Buddy was missing and all the banks allowed me to put up a poster near the ATMs. www.lostmydoggie.com was also involved. 750 local families received telephone calls asking them to be on the lookout for Buddy and local dog owners also were on the lookout. It was as if the town turned to Mayberry to help find Buddy.
