The CompTIA certification is the industry standard for computer support technicians. The international, vendor-neutral certification proves competence in areas such as installation, preventative maintenance, networking, security and troubleshooting. CompTIA certified technicians also have excellent customer service and communication skills to work with clients.

CompTIA is part of the certification track for corporations such as Microsoft, Hewlett-Packard, Cisco and Novell. Other technology companies, including CompuCom and Ricoh, have made CompTIA certification mandatory for their service technicians. More than 700,000 people worldwide have become CompTIA A+ certified since the program's inception in 1993.

This is a very good quick reference guide and primer to everything you want to know, covering the 100 CompTIA most asked questions:
